Rick and Jeanna met in Seattle, Washington in 1985. Jeanna had moved there to be a Controller and Rick was already there working as a professional musician. A few years past and they decided to open their own business. A Bar/CD/Tape store. The store was called In Your Ear. Everything was great until Napster came along. For those of you who don't know who or what Napster is, let me briefly explain. In 1990 and before, the only way to get the music of your favorite artist was to purchase it. At a store. Napster created an online program that facilitated the sharing of media from person to person at no cost. One person could buy the latest album from Rick Springfield and share it with 80 million other registered users at no cost. This was the greatest thing ever.....for the people NOT buying the albums, but the artist did think it was so great. Musicians Metallica and Dr Dre filled lawsuits against the company and won. Napster has since then went bankrupt, been bought out and had a name change. The new company is now doing their business legally. But you can see how this would have put a lot of small businesses out of business.

After this Jeanna went back to accounting and Rick went into Commercial Real Estate Appraisal.

In 2017 The Stenslands decided to move to the East coast to be closer to family. Jeanna has 2 boys and 2 grandchildren. When they moved to Winchester they knew they needed a group of people in their lives to spend time with. They began to play all the golf courses in the area. They played Rock Harbor but did not join at first. They joined Bowling Green. After one year there they came back to Rock Harbor and joined. Both Jeanna and Rick played golf on and off for most of their adult life but didn't get serious until a little later. Although, Rick does like to point out that Jeanna is the better golfer and always has been. She has even been Club Champ at several other courses they were members at in the past.

Jeanna told me that she likes Boulder 18, but Rock 3 is not a favorite because of the blind shot from the tee. Rick is a fan of Boulder 16 & 6 but says that the Boulder is a mouthful. He does not like B 15 or Rock 16, he thinks they are too hard and unfair.

Rick and Jeanna are multi-dimensional people, they have hobbies and interest that you just find fascinating. The Stenslands have a period in their lives that they like to call "The Bluegrass Period". Rick had been a professional musician all his life, playing mainly as a drummer, but the nights were getting longer and he wanted a change, so he bought a banjo. Jeanna got a guitar, they found out their neighbor played the upright bass and they formed a Bluegrass band.

Musicians always have interesting stories because they follow the music. Rick lived in Hawaii for 4 years because he played drums in a Polynesian Band. He played in a Cotton Club show in Las Vegas, he was also a drummer in the United Nations Honor Guard Band while in the army, stationed in Korea. You will have to sit and talk with these two to get more of their fascinating stories.

I am very sad to report that the Stenslands are moving at the end of the month. They will be moving to Tucson, Arizona. If you didn't get to know them, you really missed out. We do hope they will stay in touch and let us know how things are out in Arizona. Maybe the dry heat won't be as bad as the humid heat. Good luck to both of you, you will be missed.
